Teacher Certification Program for College Graduates (TCPCG)

Continuation Policy

Throughout the teacher candidates’ progress in the Teacher Education program, faculty, clinic teachers, and university supervisors will assess the teacher candidates’ professional knowledge, skills, and dispositions in both course assignments and clinical setting, and make recommendations regarding teacher candidate continuation in the program.

Continuation in the Teacher Certification Program for College Graduates is based on continued acceptable performance.

Acceptable performance in the Teacher Education program is defined as:

- Earn grades of B or better in education courses and seminars.
- Maintain a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher.
- Complete all work with regards to grades of Incomplete prior to start of the subsequent semester.
- Complete program requirements according to the plan of study for the concentration area;
- Follow UConn’s Student Conduct Code;
- Demonstrate ability to work successfully with K-12 students in field placement settings throughout the program. Clinic teachers evaluate students by using a department designed evaluation instrument aligned with program standards. Students must receive consistently positive evaluations from classroom teachers to continue in the program;
- Follow the teacher code of conduct within the assigned clinic placement.

Procedures:

The faculty leader at each campus will perform official checks regarding teacher candidate performance on a semester basis. The Associate Director of Teacher of Education will be notified of these reports. Likewise, faculty should notify the Associate Director of Teacher of Education of concerns they identify. Letters of warning will be sent to teacher education candidates failing to meet the criteria for acceptable performance and a course of action will be determined.

When issues or concerns are raised regarding the teacher candidate’s performance in the Teacher Education program, steps will be followed to address those issues or concerns. Those steps are:

1. Upon a concern being raised, the appropriate faculty, advisor, or Associate Director of Teacher Education is required to discuss the situation with the teacher candidate. Prior to the discussion the appropriate person should review relevant documentation and other sources if needed to fully discuss the situation with the teacher education candidate. This meeting must be documented and written recommendations should be given to teacher candidate. When a concern is raised about a teacher candidate’s actions/dispositions in a field placement, the faculty leader in consultation with other appropriate persons will have the option of immediately withdrawing the teacher candidate from the placement.

2. If the nature of the concern warrants further intervention, the teacher education candidate identified will be required to attend a review meeting to be called by the Associate Director of Teacher Education. The Associate Director of Teacher Education will chair and convene the Teacher Candidate Review Committee. Members, appointed by the chair, will include the student’s faculty advisor, and, when relevant, the Director of Teacher Education. Members of the Teacher Candidate Review Committee and the teacher candidate will be asked to attend. The teacher candidate may also ask an advocate of their choice to attend, but that person may not actively participate in the meeting. The purpose of the meeting will be to share concerns, gather additional information if necessary, and to develop a Teacher Candidate Action Plan, if appropriate. The meeting and plan will be documented and signed by the chair of the Teacher Candidate Review Committee, advisor, and teacher candidate.

3. If the issue or concern regarding the teacher candidate’s performance is not resolved, the teacher candidate may be encouraged to contact the department head of Curriculum and Instruction about pursuing a non-certification master’s program. Ultimately, the Teacher Candidate Review Committee may dismiss the teacher candidate from the TCPCG. Neag graduate students can appeal a dismissal by following the process for the Graduate School, as described in the Graduate Catalog.

Teacher Candidate Action Plans:

Teacher candidates who do not meet the criteria for acceptable performance may or may not be eligible for a Teacher Candidate Action Plan, based on their individual circumstances. The purpose of the Action Plan is to address areas of concern for teacher candidate’s having difficulty in the Teacher Education program. Teacher Candidate Action Plans may draw upon services offered through the university to address areas of concern and will include specific objectives and timeframes within which the objectives must be met. Successful completion of conditions outlined in a teacher candidate action plan will be required for continuation in the Teacher Education program.

Teacher Candidate Action Plans, clinic evaluation forms, recommendations, and academic warning letters are treated as part of a teacher candidate’s permanent teacher education file.
